Why Partner with DCC?

Del Camino Connection (DCC) is passionate about cultivating authentic cross-cultural partnerships. We are convinced that healthy, well functioning global networks of God's people bonded together in true friendship represents God's design for the Church and reveals the Kingdom in powerful ways.

Research on relational connectedness also suggests that it is key to catalyzing goodwill and generosity among people. We see evidence of that every day in DCC's global friendship based network that has been influencing and impacting the lives of thousands of individuals and at risk communities all over the world.

We focus on what we call "Just Relationships", friendships across marked contextual differences that bring about innovative solutions for restoration and reconciliation in the world through their professional, ministerial, and personal networks.

From our 25+ years of global experience cultivating, establishing and navigating the complexities of relational networks from diverse contexts we have developed three ways to foster connections and friendships between and among the various groups we represent:

1. Church-to-Church Partnerships

DCC coaches mission pastors and church leaders as they navigate the complexities of their current cross-cultural partner relationships. We also connect those who are seeking new partner relations to other global networks of churches to build potential partner relationships for the future. DCC also mentors leaders who are seeking to transform short-term mission experiences into potential long-term opportunities for reconciliation, restoration, and justice.

We do this in an ongoing way by providing professional coaches/trainers and consultants who offer various specialized experience, skills, and knowledge. DCC consultants are available to accompany a process of working through specific needs or problems or potential problems and facilitate scenarios that move toward solutions that result in healthier connections or partnerships.

2. Global Networks

DCC catalyzes and connects communities of faith from around the world that share a common vision for God's mission of restoration and reconciliation (ex. the Red del Camino Network in Latin America).

DCC connectors organize visits or vision trips to connect you with potential church partners or to invite you to participate in local and global gatherings among church and thought leaders who share a synergy for creative participation in God's restorative mission in the world. We are committed to cultivating a global community among followers of Jesus who share a passion for integral mission.

3. Kingdom Investment Opportunities

DCC identifies and accompanies local church-based initiatives for community transformation & channels resources from churches and generous Kingdom citizens via the strong relational ties that we cultivate. This helps to ensure real impact in the lives and communities that are being served. Because we focus on just relationships, we connect you directly to those on the front lines of ministry who are inspiring hope and bringing tangible change in contexts of great need.

DCC Partner Churches:

Churches in formal partnership with Del Camino Connection value our efforts with an annual investment from $6,000 ($500 per month) to $18,000 ($1,500 per month) depending on church size.

Formal church partners receive services from DCC through connecting, training, consulting, and coaching. Non partner churches and organizations can solicit DCC's services but will pay for those on a per request basis. Formal church partnerships help us focus on what we do best - connecting God's people to effectively carry out His purposes on earth. Thank you for prayerfully considering becoming a formal church partner of DCC.
